Selfish Ambition by

The proud father strokes the blond hair on his little boys head and asks, "What do you want to be when you grow up?" "An Astronaut," he replies with wide-eyed optimism.

The teacher asks the same question to her third-grade class and in turn each child responds. "The President!" "A professional baseball player!" "A firefighter!" Each answer is greeted by a confident affirmation. "Great!" "You can be anything you want to be if you put your mind to it." And thus begins the downward spiral of those lives and our society in the pursuit of selfish ambition.

Now I am not suggesting that we should not encourage or provide our future generations with the necessary opportunities to be all they can be and to do great things. What I am suggesting is that we have (and are) failing to reply to their hopes and dreams with a proper perspective and focus.

Two things come immediately to mind. One is; no matter how I might set my mind to it there are some things I will never be able to do! I will never be able to outrun Usane Bolt! Ridiculous observation you say? No more so than many of the things we tell our children they can do if they "just put their minds to it." In anticipated response to the offended parent at my attempt to crush little Johnny's future grandeur allow me to suggest that the correct response is to ask the question, "Why?"

If every young person grew up with an emphasis on service to God and others, this world, and the church, would be a far better place. And not just service for the sake of service, or for the end of feeling good about ourselves, but that we might please God and bring others to Him. We emphasize the idea of letting our "light so shine before men" that they may see our good works. But why should we do so is the more important question. The answer is that they might glorify the Father, not us (Matthew 5:16).

Paul warned the church in Rome that God's wrath, and not His blessing, would be on those who served out of selfish ambition. "But in accordance with your hardness and your impenitent heart you are treasuring up for yourself wrath in the day of wrath and revelation of the righteous judgment of God, who 'will render to each one according to his deeds': eternal life to those who by patient continuance in doing good seek for glory, honor, and immortality; but to those who are self-seeking and do not obey the truth, but obey unrighteousness—indignation and wrath," (Romans 2:5-8).

Self-seeking here is translated in other versions as "selfishly ambitious," "self-willed," and "self-seeking." While other translations use the words "contentious" and "factious" because that is exactly what such ambition brings. In James 3:16

Notes from Zimbabwe
Missionary, Velaphi Mlangeni

We received the following update from Velaphi: “When Point Pleasant gave us a gift of $500, we thanked God because there was a need for us to replace the rear truck tires which were wearing thin and we did just that. This made our visit to the rural areas safe and our preaching itinerary problem free and very exciting indeed. Soon we shall start another marathon travel to distribute used clothing to the needy Christians in all rural areas.

During July, 35 souls obeyed the Gospel truth. We praise God! Many were baptized when our visiting missionaries visited villages and preached the Word. The seed was planted into many hearts as our brothers and sisters travelled through many villages preaching and teaching God's Word and distributing food to the needy. We are already receiving calls from many villagers who want to obey the Gospel truth through baptism. Glory be to God!

Please email Velaphi with your notes of encouragement. He truly appreciates hearing from us regularly.
